We need a government and society which works for all the moms among us. Our faith has a vision of dignity and justice where everyone can thrive, but we are struggling right now. We all know moms who do not have the paid leave they need to care for their families, who fear being torn apart from their kids by immigration detention or deportation or who worry about police violence killing themselves or their kids.

Faith in Public Life is working across the country to empower moms and build a society which protects the dignity of every child of God. Can you join us?

Calendar of Events

Tuesday, May 4

Mother's Day: Economic Relief for Working Families (Paid Family Leave/Florida)

Coffee at the Capitol with Florida Lawmakers

9 a.m. ET

Tres Madres: Three Years Later (Ohio/immigration/police violence)

Description: Three years ago, we gathered in Columbus Mennonite Church to honor the stories of tres madres, three mothers, as they struggled for their own liberation and the dignity of their families.

Join us Tuesday May 4th at 7 p.m. for a virtual conversation with these same tres madres, Edith Espinal, Adrienne Hood and Jackie Kifuko. They will once again gather to share their wisdom and experience with us in a conversation facilitated by another powerful mother struggling for liberation, Paisha Thomas.

Reunification and Relief for Families Now (Immigration)

In 2018 the Trump administration enacted the zero tolerance policy and cruelly separated 5, 500 migrant families. Faith leaders have stood alongside Black and brown organizers to denounce this immoral policy and demand justice for all immigrant communities. However, families remain separated to this day and the trauma inflicted upon all those families is everlasting. The Biden Administration must prioritize making this a nation where every person is respected and every family can thrive.
